PEST CONTROL INC.

Disclaimer and Limitation of Liability for Drilling through concrete slabs.

In certain situations it is necessary to drill through concrete slabs in order to get insecticide or termiticide materials to areas where insects or termites reside or gain access through to enter a structure. In almost all cases we do not have blueprints or guaranteed locations of under-slab utilities. In addition, there are no practical means of determining where utilities may exist. We do however follow general standard practices of where most of the utilities are installed and use "drill-stops" as a precautionary measure in the case that a metal object beneath the slab is encountered. This will not help in the case of plastics, thin metals such as copper or aluminum or heating elements that are installed within the slab. Therefore, in order for Long Pest Control, Inc. to proceed with drilling through the concrete slab and performing the treatment, a disclaimer and release of responsibility must be signed indicating that you are aware of the slight possibility that damages may be encountered while drilling through the concrete. If you have any questions regarding the procedure or this limitation of liability, please contact this office to get your questions answered before signing this form.

By signing and dating below, you are under full understanding the treatment that is going to be performed and the minimal risk of the possible damage to utilities including but not limited to plumbing, electrical, data and heating lines and do accept full responsibility for repair to those lines should they be encountered. Furthermore, releasing Long Pest Control of any and all costs associated with repair measures. With this signature the undersigned is authorizing for Long Pest Control, Inc. to commence treatment.
